Getting on? Growing older with autism

What are some of the challenges people with autism face in older age and what can government do to address them? These are the questions that our new reports and campaign, Getting on? Growing older with autism, seek to answer.

Based on interviews, focus groups, surveys and the outcome of evidence sessions held in parliament earlier this year, the Getting on? reports set out some of the key issues facing older people with autism and what government and other bodies need to do to make sure they have the services and support they need.

On this page you can:

download a copy of the full policy report, which includes detailed findings and recommendations to government download the shorter report for campaigners.

We'll now be working, alongside a small group of campaigners, to raise awareness of the report's recommendations and to get them implemented.
